bridging the gap between undergraduate and doctoral education

Post-baccalaureate resources for Mellon Mays Fellows applying to doctoral programs

The Mellon Mays Gap Assistance Program helps Mellon Mays Fellows who have recently graduated maintain their graduate school ambitions and progress towards an academic career.

When there's a gap between earning your undergraduate degree and pursuing your Ph.D., reduced contact with the academy, time management concerns, work-life balance, and other issues can make it more challenging to complete your application to a doctoral program.

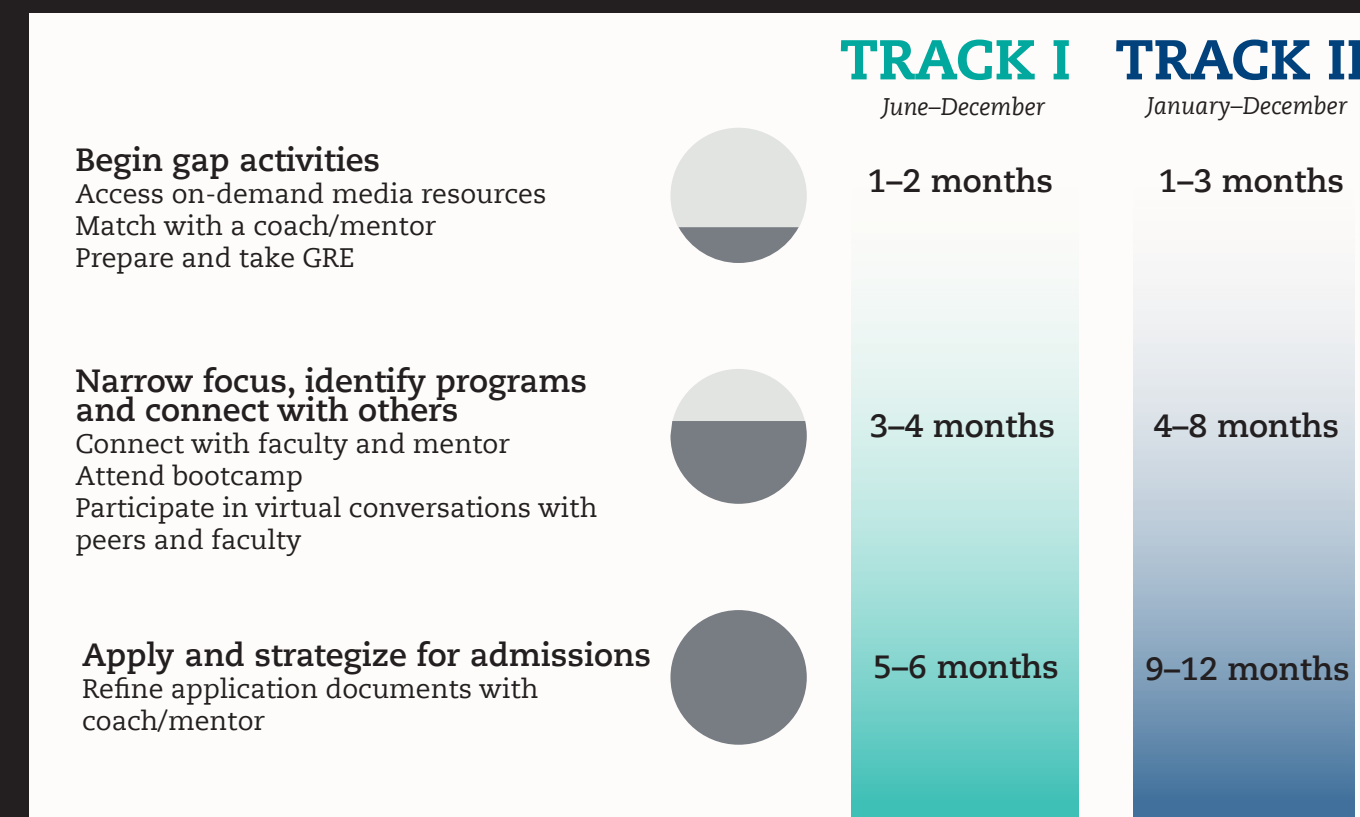

The Mellon Mays GAP provides the resources that successful Mellon Mays graduate students and Ph.D.s cited as critical for getting through gap year(s):

- Structured template of gap year activities with staff follow-up and accountability with peers on your track
- Live and on-demand media resources including webinar courses, handouts, video interviews of previous Fellows
- Predoctoral coaching and mentoring, regional events and virtual conversations
- Graduate school intensive bootcamps in spring and fall (most expenses paid)

PROGRAM TIMELINE

Fellows are placed on one of two tracks—either a six-month or a full-year curriculum—based on their timeline to apply to graduate school. A brief outline of resources are listed below.
