

Eligibility Requirements

The IRT seeks applicants who

- are seriously considering a career as a teacher, counselor, administrator, or professor at the K-12 or university level,
- are college juniors, seniors, or graduates, including students currently or previously enrolled in a Master's degree program,
- have an undergraduate or Master's degree major in the humanities, social sciences, math, education, or computer science
- as undergraduates, have earned a grade point average of 3.0 or above (on a 4.0 scale); and as graduate students, have earned a grade point average of 3.5 or above (on a 4.0 scale).

Apply Online by April 1st!

To view the application requirements and start your application, please visit us at www.andover.edu/irt. Early applications are highly recommended, and the admission committee may require a personal interview.

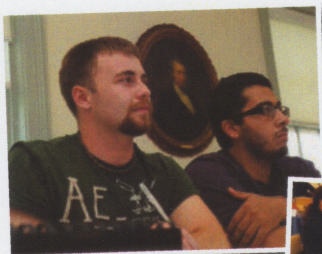

IRT Benefits

From early September through mid-November, all participants receive the same benefits, which include:

- Individualized support and extensive counseling as you choose graduate programs and apply to a renowned consortium of graduate schools across the country
- Application fee waivers
- Assistance in fine-tuning statements of purpose, resumes, and writing samples
- Approximately two months and $1000 saved on completing at least 10 applications
- Invitation to participate in IRT's annual Recruiters' Weekend, attended by more than 60 academic deans and graduate admissions representatives from consortium institutions

Additionally, the IRT sponsors a summer workshop for 25-30 students who apply to the program during their junior or senior years of college. Participants engage in a graduate-level curriculum of critical, cultural, and educational theory during an intense four-week program at Phillips Academy in July. For more information about this program, please visit our website, www.andover.edu/irt.

The Consortium

The IRT will help you apply to at least 10 graduate programs within the consortium of colleges and universities listed below:

Boston College
Boston University
Brandeis University
Brown University
City University of New York
Columbia Teachers College
Columbia University
Cornell University
Duke University
Emory University
Harvard University
Johns Hopkins University
Michigan State University
New York University
Princeton University
Purdue University
Rice University
Rutgers University
Southern Methodist University
Stanford University
Tufts University
University of Arizona
University of California – Berkeley
University of California – Davis
University of California – San Diego
University of Chicago
University of Connecticut
University of Maine
University of Maryland – College Park
University of Michigan
University of New Hampshire
University of North Carolina-Greensboro
University of Pennsylvania
University of Rhode Island
University of Rochester
University of Southern California
University of Vermont
University of Virginia
University of Wisconsin-Madison
Washington State University
Washington University (St. Louis)
Yale University

Approximately 90% of participating students have received a full tuition waiver and partial to full fellowship funding for up to six years of graduate study.