General feedback (5 points):

The content of this article is really good, there are definitely some grammar mistakes and overall wordiness, especially where there are two adverbs one after another. The citations are also not placed properly, sometimes appearing in the middle of the sentence which makes it hard to read. The content was interesting and easy to understand, and there was a cool connection between the author and the content of the article. I think it would be cool to know more about the science of what is being researched, rather than just how blood types work.

Overall assessment (excellent, good, needs improvement):

Overall good, some small things to improve on.
