General feedback (5 points):

Overall, I think your paper is well thought out and explicitly explains the findings from the research article. Though it is, as a whole, well written, I will point out a few things I had noticed. I think it would be helpful to have an extra line space between your title and written essay. When I was reading it, I couldn't differentiate that that was the title initially (just a minor detail). I will also note that your paper does seem very summarized from your sources, in the way that your writing is a lot of chronological cause and effect of the how the disease evolves. It is not until the second page that you mention the new research found within the article. I would suggest added or revising the beginning paragraph to state the overall purpose of your essay that way the reader knows the objective of your writing.

Overall assessment (excellent, good, needs improvement):

For your overall assessment I would give it excellent. Your writing provides efficient details and gives the purpose of the article you provided.
