General feedback (5 points): 4.75

This is a great paper. It is very easy to understand, and it flows really nicely. You did a great job of defining all the biological terms, which makes the paper very readable. The only thing that really needs fixing is adding the intext citations. I see that you have the work cited so just adding the citations in the paper would be great. The only suggestion I have is maybe you want to add a little background of what Parkinson's disease is? I think this might give the reader more background into fully understanding how the stem cell research helps.

Overall assessment (excellent, good, needs improvement):

Overall this is an excellent paper! Just put in the intext citations and it will be great.
