General feedback (5 points):

I think that you explained your topic about cancer and treatment developments very clearly and the way you clarified various terminology made it easier for me to understand everything. Some suggestions I think would help improve your news article include adding a conclusion to sum all your points that you made throughout the article, correcting any spelling errors, and providing intext citations for any data you included. Other than this, everything else looks good and I think you did really well.

Overall assessment (excellent, good, needs improvement):

Overall, I really liked the way you formatted the new article essay, and it really showed your understanding of this topic. To improve your essay, I think that you could add a citation for your primary source (if you included any data into your news article) and also the points I mentioned in "General Feedback". Generally, I think you did really well, and I think the reason why you chose this topic was really interesting.
