

GreekKeys 2015 License

Keyboards License

This License applies both to the following items: (1) GreekKeys 2015 Unicode inputs for Mac OS X in the XML format with suffix .keylayout and to these same files when embedded in the containers GKUall.bundle, GKUdcmp1.bundle, GKUdcmp2.bundle; (2) Windows GKU2015 keyboards in .dll format installed by the GreekKeys 2015 Windows installers.

NOTE: In the following, the numbers expressing limits refer to the permitted number of separate computers or CPUs and not to the number of instances of the software. For instance, a single Mac computer with three partitions or volumes could have two instances of the Mac software installed on two separate volumes and one instance of the Windows software installed on a Windows volume and still count as one computer for the purposes of these licenses.

NOTE: the term “purchaser” includes those to whom a license is granted as a benefit of membership in the Society for Classical Studies.

The unlimited departmental site license covers computers in the principal campus locations (i.e., departmental offices, departmental seminar and research rooms, departmental library suites) and faculty home computers (laptops and desktops). Departmental licenses to GreekKeys 2015 include a free extension for distribution to students in the Department’s courses under the terms of the Extended License later in this document.

A sole-proprietor publishing or typesetting company may purchase an individual license.
