

REQUIEM, INVITATION, AND CELEBRATION

A COLLECTION OF SEASONAL PRACTICES

Emmanuel Vaughan-Lee & Lucy Wormald

Find a comfortable place in the understory and cast your eyes skywards. Drink in the sight until you feel intoxicated with the abundance of green. Focus your gaze on the different permutations of hue, light, and wind that create sage green, juniper green, viridian green, and so on. Locate the lightest, and then the next lightest, and continue to travel further and further into the spectrum of color until you are resting in its depths. Attentive to the myriad greens in just the trees above you, see the beauty and multiplicity of everything rooted around you reaching for the sky.

(20) MYRIAD GREEN

for when trees offer a feast
for the eyes